NUMBER 18.

Dorothy Imelman

In Flanders field the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our plowed and sown sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the winds below.

We are the dead—short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high;
If you break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Katherine Peterson

To members of the American Legion and its Auxiliary, Memorial Day means a lot more than it does to the layman. The carnage of the World War is ever fresh in their minds, but fresher still is the knowledge of the hopeless mental and physical wreckage in the government hospitals throughout the nation.

Patients in these hospitals made the Flanders poppies which the Auxiliary to the Carmel post of the American Legion will place on sale Friday. In the layout above are Katherine Peterson, head of the local Auxiliary, and Dorothy Imelman, chairman of the 1937 poppy sales committee, with bouquets of poppies.

"Ted" Kuster Suing City for Fire Loss

Edward G. Kuster again gave the Village something to talk about Thursday when he filed suit against the city for $67,000 damages as a result of the fire which swept the Theater of the Golden Bough. He contends that the city is responsible for the loss because it had failed to provide water mains of sufficient size to protect property within the city limits.

Several members of the council were interviewed on the subject Friday morning but they refused to get excited over the suit. Their opinion was that the fire had gained such headway before it was discovered that damage to the theater could not be prevented. They pointed out the fact that much of the structure was saved and that if the fire department had not been efficient and had an adequate supply of water at its disposal the blaze would not only have resulted in the complete destruction of the building but it would have spread to adjoining structures.

The suit is so unique that it is likely to attract wide attention. If Kuster should happen to be awarded damages it is likely that similar suits will be filed against municipalities throughout the country.

The damages asked, according to Kuster, represents the difference between the insurance collected and the actual value of the building, which he places at $75,000.

Councilman Bernard Rowntree, fire commissioner, had no official information concerning the suit

American Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Poppies Friday

Friday is Poppy Day.

From every part of the state, Units of the American Legion Auxiliary are mustering their forces to make this year's sale of Veteran made poppies greater than preceding years.

More than 400,000 red paper poppies have been made in California veteran hospitals. They are ready for distribution to every Unit in the state, and it is expected that more than $40,000 will be realized through Poppy Day sales when he was interviewed by one of our reporters. His statement, which follows, was based upon the information relayed to him:

"Carmel has always been particularly friendly to Kuster and for this reason I am very sorry he has been fit to put the taxpayers of Carmel to the expense of defending a suit.

"I do not say 'paying damages' for I do not believe there is a ghost of a chance of Kuster being awarded any. Kuster has been engaged in the legal profession and I make no claims to legal knowledge but that certain activities of a municipality are conducted under state laws created for that express purpose.

"I understand Kuster is asking damages for the difference between the value of the building, $75,000, and the amount of insurance he was carrying, $8,000.

this year, all of which will be utilized for much needed Child Welfare work in California.

An important factor in stimulating interest in the event has been the poster contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, in which school children throughout the state have participated.

Friday, members of the Carmel Auxiliary will be selling the poppies, doing their share, but it's up to you to make the sale a success. Buy a poppy.

There are literally hundreds of fires every day throughout the United States and if the courts allow damages such as Kuster claims, every city in the country would be paying them. Perhaps they have paid some, but I never heard of it.

"Looked at one way, it would mean that if you have insurance, the company pays but if you neglect to carry fire insurance, the city pays for your loss. An interesting angle, if true."

Miss Ellen O'Sullivan, of Santa Lucia street, entertained as her week-end guests her niece and nephew, Miss Barbara Sutro and Mr. Terrence O'Sullivan of San Francisco. Mr. O'Sullivan, who is connected with the Standard Oil Company in San Salvador, is visiting his California home for the first time in several years.

Builders at Peace With Union Crafts

The Monterey Building Trades Council and the General Contractors Association seem to have reached an agreement which should serve as an example as to what can be done in other labor disputes.

Beginning June 1, the contractors have agreed to recognize the unions and to give their members preference in hiring but the contractors did not surrender their right to operate under the "American Plan" as in the past. If the unions are unable to supply a sufficient number of men to meet the needs of the contractors, the contractors may hire as many non-union men as necessary and the union men have agreed to work with them without conflict.

As for wages and working conditions, the present agreement between employers and employees seems to be satisfactory but in event of any conflict in the future these differences will be ironed out by a conference committee, composed of five members from each group.

This agreement comes at a time when Monterey Peninsula is experiencing a building boom greater than it has ever experienced. Labor troubles at this time, both sides have agreed, would result in heavy losses for employers and employees alike.

Mrs. Grace Douglas of Pebble Beach will entertain a large group of friends from Southern California during Race Week.

Bride-to-be

The wedding of Miss Hope Sykes above, and Mr. Emil Cowing, will take place in the Carmel Mission, Saturday, June 5. Miss Sykes, whose home is in Fresno, has been spending the spring months in Carmel with her mother, and sister, Miss Ace Sykes, who will be her sister's attendant.

The bride-elect attended St. John's Academy in Fresno and the prospective groom graduated from Stanford where he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. After their marriage, the young couple will reside in Ogden, Utah, where Mr. Cowing is in business.

Good is the news that Mr. Harry Turner has finished his hospitalization and is once more "at home" to his Carmel friends, at his house on San Antonio street.

Filmarte Reopens

Alexander Korda's epic screen production, "Fire Over England," will have its Monterey Peninsula premiere at the Filmarte theater Friday night when it opens a three-day run at Carmel's most unique showhouse.

The picture is said to be the most spectacular ever filmed in England. By the unanimous vote of the 52 member nations it was given the League of Nations award. No other picture has received such a tribute, according to Richard Bare, manager of the theater.

At its American premier in the Radio City Music Hall it was hailed by the press as one of the greatest motion pictures ever produced. The Filmarte was selected by United Artists Corporation for the Peninsula premier because of the success of the last Korda production, "Rembrandt," which had a long run at the little theater several weeks ago.

The Spanish Inquisition furnishes the setting for the film and the clash between the mighty Spanish Armada and the British fleet provides the sensational climax.

There will be two performances each night and a matinee at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

MRS. SORENSEN PASSES

Funeral services were held in Berkeley, Monday, for Mrs. Anna Sorensen, 66, who suffered a fatal heart-attack, late Friday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. Hanna, of Carmel, with whom she was visiting.

Mrs. Sorensen, whose home was in Berkeley, was accompanied to Carmel by her husband, Walter Sorensen. Immediate survivors are her husband and daughter, Mrs. Hanna.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEETS

The Monterey County Humane Society, which has many Carmel members, met yesterday afternoon, in the Monterey City Council chambers. The meeting was held primarily to introduce James Kam, formerly associated with Irene Castle's Animal Shelter in Chicago, who has recently been put in charge of the Monterey shelter. It was an open meeting, both members of the Association and others attending.

Mrs. Kent Clark will leave shortly for Vancouver to meet her daughter Phyllis, who is in school there. After a short stay in Vancouver, they will return to Carmel to spend the summer.

On the News Front

Once more we demonstrate the power of the camera over the type-writer in telling a news story. The picture above is of the sedan which did a couple of handsprings, cartwheels, etc., on the Carpenter street exit from Carmel late Monday afternoon.

The doors were jammed and passing motorists had to tear away the roof of the car to rescue its five injured occupants.

Over the week-end, Del Monte Lodge at Pebble Beach housed Miss Marian Hollins of Pasatiempo, Miss Gretchen Ahlowede and Miss Joan Brandel of Stanford University, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bonestell of Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Russell of Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bunn and Mrs. Thomas Mulven have taken a box for the races next week. With them will be Mrs. Jack Jordan, Mrs. Louis Jorgenson, Dr. and Mrs. James Hughes and Miss Marguerite Tickle.

Five Are Injured

Five dining room employees of Hoel Del Monte were injured late Monday afternoon when a sedan in which they were riding went out of control and rolled over several times on the County Road exit from Carmel in Carmel Woods.

The salvage truck of the Carmel fire department, which serves as an ambulance, carried the injured men to the Peninsula Community Hospital where they were treated by Dr. John R. Gray.

All occupants of the car suffered cuts and bruises about the head and face. Otto Neuer, Jerry Callahan and Dave Later were able to return to their homes after receiving first aid treatment but Chris Flickenger, the driver, and Tommy Scaaries were so seriously injured that they remained in the hospital for x-ray examinations.

The party was leaving Carmel, via Carpenter street, and the car overturned about 100 yards from the state highway.

COFFEE SHOP OPENS

Reynolds' Coffee Shop will make its bow to the eating public of Carmel, May 30. V. T. Reynolds, the proprietor, has been in the restaurant business for 35 years and promises to make his new cafe celebrated for its excellent cuisine and service. The store was formerly occupied by Lester's cafe and prior to that by the famous Ye Teene-Weene Tid Bit Shoppe.

The Mission Ranch Club was the scene of an attractive luncheon

Circulation by the Superior Court of Monterey County,
California, October 7, 1936.

To date, the editor of this paper has been a bit hesitant about expressing his thoughts on local matters, believing himself too youthful and strange to the community to dare to hold an opinion. Also, he was brought up in the belief that a child is to be seen only at meal time and to be heard only when saying his prayers. These things may still be true, but the pulling editor is very tired of going unheard. What is more, he believes that there is special need of youthful voices in Carmel, where youth is, unfortunately, a beach-frolicking quantity to be reckoned with only when it makes too much noise.

So now the drooling editor will constitute himself a youthful voice in the hope that he may gain the support, regardless of possible differences of opinion, of other young men and women in the community who, like himself, feel that it is about time somebody started to whittle a place for youngsters in the business and political life of the Village.

All of which brings us to the fact that we (the editor) are confused, amazed, and bewildered at all this talk and writing of keeping businesses, and people generally, it would seem, out of Carmel.

Perhaps we had best make a few simple statements before we proceed to ruin youth's chances once and for all.

We are very much in favor of the Carmel Business Association, of which we have lately become a member, and we know that all business men should get together to protect themselves insofar as is possible from outside competition, which is one of the more unpleasant aspects of business.

We feel, as everybody must, that Carmel is swell as it is and that it would be too bad if outside personalities and business influences superimposed themselves upon us to the extent of robbing the place of its peculiar flavor.

But what is all this calamity-hollering, this babble of words about new highways, outside business invasion, the town changing hands, etc.? Has anyone proposed, and stood behind, a logical remedy?

We have heard only two. Mr. Bechdolt, whom we respect, proposed one in a Pine Cone editorial May 7th. Even he was a little hazy as to what to do about this threatened invasion. He said, "And it does seem as if, were the Business Association to go to work on this, they might be able to solve the problem. Perhaps it could be done through our zoning ordinance, perhaps otherwise."

Very well, restrict the business district. Don't allow a new enterprise to be set up except within the boundaries of a given area. What will happen? The very same thing that has happened in New York and other large cities. Instead of business spreading over a larger area, it will grow up. There will be taller buildings in spite of any ordinance prohibiting the construction of any structure over sixty feet high. Perhaps, if all property holders promised not to build higher structures, when they knew that there was a shortage of space, the area available being consumed by the great onslaught of outside business, there might be some chance of a small amount of restriction. But, business being business, it seems that offices and floor space would be provided as long as there is a demand, which, judging from the talk, there will be in quantity.

Another remedy is the suggested enactment of an ordinance similar to one now in effect in Pasadena, which, as we understand it, would, at best, only slightly discourage seasonal business competition in that it would not be allowed to conduct closing out sales or other disposal sales after having been operating here only a few months. There are other angles to the Pasadena ordinance which are being gotten around today in Pasadena and would probably be gotten around were they put into effect here. In any case, as the chief exponents of the ordinance will admit, such a law would not be any great assurance against "foreign" competition. There is no constitutional way under the sun to keep people or businesses out of the Village, and if there were, it would probably turn out to be the counterpart of hard looks and icy stares. Carmel is not a country club from which uncongenial souls may be barred unless they are able to pay twice the initiation fee.

Some say that if property owners agreed not to sell, lease, or rent property to outsiders, most often competitors, that said outsiders would thus be held without the city walls. That would be poor business from the standpoint of property owners who are not, themselves, engaged in business. No other city or community in the land has been able to withstand the tide of invading competition and we doubt, humbly and resignedly, that Carmel could do so with ordinance and zoning law. Therefore, it would seem that we must take a broader and more tolerant and gracious point of view.

Apropos of this last statement, we are bothered by another angle to this business. Presumably, those persons who will come here, with the opening of the new highway, will do so because they genuinely want to live here or because they think they may make a better living here. No matter who they are, who the dickens are we to say—You are coarse and unartistic and we already have too much business here. Go away, lest you spoil Carmel.

What a Finish!

By jingo, the editor of this paper came here because he wanted to live here, and in order to live here he had to have a business as an excuse. So he bought a paper which is competing, we hope, with two others here. And yet the editor does not feel that he has committed any very heinous crime and will resent any insinuation that he has. Therefore, we contend that anybody has the same privilege as the editor, who is neither a Socialist nor Communist nor particularly broad-minded.

The Pine Cone, in an editorial last Friday, yowled about "dog-eat-dog law of business." And the editorial implied that "it is against those who come with every intention of staying, with a grim determination to survive even if it means that establishments already in the field go to the wall in the process," that all efforts should be directed. By trying to support laws to exclude outside interests, the Pine Cone is practising that very "dog-eat-dog" law against which they just sounded their battle-dented editorial bugle.

(And, also, Mr. and Mrs. Pine Cone, if you want to do us any appreciable damage you will have to cast something more substantial than aspersions.)

We, then, maintain in the teeth of all comers, that any decent folk who come here and there will always be the other kind, with the determination to do more than rake up the excess monies and beat it, have a perfect right to do so. We claim, also, that there is no dignified or logical way to eliminate "foreign" competition unless it is to so firmly establish ourselves and to so improve our business that seasonal competition may be ignored. (Mr. Bassett is our seasonal competition.)

As to the Carmel's atmosphere, let the artists and the business men combine to form so strong a body that the combined influence and individuality will be more than enough to withstand any invasion. This last statement may seem a little vague and idealistic. But that's exactly what it has to be.

In his letter to the city council announcing his $67,000 suit against the city, Edward G. Kuster makes another insinuation which leads us to invite "Ted" to come out into the open and make a definite charge of arson against whom-ever he is casting these insinuations.

We have no hesitation in announcing to the world in general that we like Kuster. We appreciate the sincerity of his efforts for the advancement of the theater in Carmel. At the same time, we must admit that we have some other friends in the Village. Also, we must admit that they have been sincere in their endeavors along theatrical lines. We are not divulging any secrets when we say that these friends have engaged in spirited clashes with Ted more than once.

Since the Theater of the Golden Bough burned two years ago there have been a lot of ugly rumors that the fire was started by one of Kuster's enemies. Perhaps it was. We don't know. We do know that Ted has, inadvertently, made a lot of enemies. We hope that we do not number among our friends any of those enemies who would stoop to arson to square any score with him. However, every man and woman in Carmel who has differed with him in his theatrical ventures will remain under a nasty shadow until he comes out into the open and makes a definite charge against someone.

We quote from that last letter to the city council:

"The immediate occasion for the disaster was the incendiary act of an individual, acting under agreement of himself and several persons. In time the identity of these persons may be publicly established."

We have faith in our police department and believe that if Kuster has any facts to justify these charges he should turn the information over to the police. If our police are not efficient enough to track down the arsonist we believe that Kuster should employ a private detective to procure the necessary facts to send this fiend to San Quentin.

As long as he insists upon broadcasting these insinuations and producing no warrants there are a lot of his "friendly enemies" in Carmel who are being done a grave injustice.

In Dance Recital

Ruth Austin's pupils, some thirty of them, will give a recital of their work next Sunday in the Filmarte Theater and the admission will be free. Miss Austin stresses the curtain time—three o'clock sharp, as it will be a prompt curtain.

The recital will be divided into four sections, according to the age of the children. The baby group, of children from two to eight, consists of Allene Knight, Alys Knight, Emma Schmutz, Barbara Barcisco, Mavis Jones, Shirley Slipner, Cynthia Carr, Micki Beller, Mary Henderson, Sydney Hudson and Wanda Warren. Their program will be called "A Dream Phantasy." Grieg's Oriental Suite will be danced by the eight and ten year olds, namely Carol Louise Walker, Patricia Flynn, Elisabeth Hollister, Doris Lewis, Diane Ley, Alyce Holm, Alice Morehouse and Joan Carr. An Oriental bazaar will be the setting for the next group including Mary Jean Elliott, Polly Hunter, Rose Gossler, Jeannette Parkes, Eleanor Johnston, Beverly Leidig, Meta Gossler, Panthea Ley, Kraig Short, Virginia Brady, Betsy Hunter, Ann Whitman and Emma Ann Wishart.

The advanced students, Bettie Rae Sutton, Maxine Laney and Patty Lou Elliott, will present a group of dances in the modern manner which they themselves composed, and for which they designed and executed their own costumes.

Mary Walker will accompany the dancers at the piano, the lighting will be done by Kay Knudsen and Lyle Bate, those master stage electricians, and the audience will be ushered to their seats by Roe Marie Mattimore and Suzanne Chapman.

Miss Austin has announced that classes will be resumed in September and Betty Carr will be associated with her as instructor of tap dancing.

Tommy Hooper entertained a party of friends at the Hooper ranch in the Carmel Valley. Those who enjoyed a sunny week-end in the Valley were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lombardi of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gordon Greene and Miss Audrey Martin of Pebble Beach.

A car driven by Miss Henrietta Shore, local artist, collided with one driven by Judge Dudley Kinsell, thereby causing its overturn. Fortunately no one was injured, but Chief of Police Norton in commenting, stressed the great danger incurred by motorists who drive faster than safety allows even though they be within the legal speed limit.

Survey Ordered

Mrs. Mary Dummage, who is considering construction of a business building on her property at the intersection of Lincoln street and Ocean avenue, employed a couple of engineers to establish the lines of her lots but their separate reports were so conflicting that she has appealed to the city council for a survey at the city's expense.

One of the engineers found that Ernie Schweninger's building extended over upon her property by a fraction of an inch. The other engineer found that the Schweninger building was in its own territory but that part of what Mrs. Dummage thought was her property extends over the boundaries of the Ocean avenue right-of-way.

The city council approved the request and the survey is to be made under direction of Councilman James Thoburn, commissioner of streets.

BUILDS NEW GATEHOUSE

We notice that the Del Monte Properties Company has at last recognized the importance of the 17 Mile Drive gate at the top of Carmel Hill. It is constructing a Spanish type stucco house beside the gate and will make that entrance even more attractive than the other three.

The building will serve as an office for the gatekeeper and as an information bureau. There will be a large reception room in which there will be maps of the entire Peninsula. An attendant will be on duty to aid visitors in reaching any point and advise the most scenic spots on the famous drive.

The other entrances have had attractive gatehouse for years but this one has been neglected. It had only an unsightly booth beside the gate to provide shelter for the gateman.

Mrs. Willis Polk and Mrs. Atherton Russell, daughter of the novelist, Gertrude Atherton, have been spending a week in Carmel in the Cottage of Mrs. Perry Eyre on Scenic Road and Martin Way.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

In the beautiful early summer setting of Mrs. Joseph Hooper's Carmel Valley estate, the Garden Section, of which Mrs. Hooper is a member, entertained the other divisions of the Carmel Women's Club.

With a background of roses, for which the grounds are celebrated, tables were set under the oak and sycamore trees around the swimming pool. Members brought their picnic lunches and coffee. Tea and dessert were served by Mrs. Hooper. During the afternoon card games were played and a few guests went swimming.

Among those who were present were Mesdames Nye, Lynch, Meads, Jordan, Sherwin, Tenwinkle, Beller, Turner, McDow, Clement, Wheldon, Woolf, Smith, Ainsworth, Hall, Godly, Middleton, Sly, Perkins, Bodley, Josselyn, Beardsley, Chidester, Roper, Chrisholm, Froli, Locan, Heathorne, Mather, Mathews, McCarthy, Ralston, Miller, Grigsby, Lehman, Fitch, and the Misses Huntington, Crawford, A. Grant, M. Grant, Hartwell, MacGee and Knight.

At the S. F. B. Morse, Carmel Valley River Ranch, Mrs. Howell Van Gerhig will be a guest, while Miss Mary Morse, who graduates from Dominican Convent, today, will entertain four of her classmates during Race Week. They will be Miss Nan Tucker, Miss Katherine Kennedy, Miss Genevieve Lyman and Miss Frances Woodhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Tyrrell-Martin were dinner hosts last week, to Lord and Lady Mandeville, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Buckley Jr., Miss Jean MacKelvie and Mr. Winston Frost.

Director

Michel Penha, director of the 1937 Bach Festival to be held the week of July 19 to 25, arrived in Carmel Sunday morning to conduct his regular monthly rehearsal of orchestra and chorus. The Californian photographer was on hand to take the above picture as the director alighted from his car in front of the rehearsal room.

Jean Thompson was married in Fresno, Saturday, to Chester Madden. Her sisters, Nancy and Norris, attended her, and Ace Sykes (driven to the train by Tommy Hooper) went to Fresno to be present. Nan's wedding to Phil Ellethorpe is scheduled to take place July third. When Nan, Jean and Norris were living in Carmel two or three years ago, the Thompson house on Santa Fe was a rendezvous for a quantity of the town's beaux and belles.
